Unborn Ghost – Airs of Contempt and Derision

Unborn Ghost is the studio project of Brian M. Clark, an American musician and writer based in Denver, Colorado. Unborn Ghost's debut album, Airs of Contempt and Derision, was recorded in Clark's home studio during the coronavirus pandemic lockdowns of the early 2020s. It features guest appearances by Ralph Gean, Little Fyodor, Vadge Moore, and members of The Partridge Family Temple.

Airs of Contempt and Derision was produced by Howard Karp, whose previous production and audio engineering has included work with artists such as Stone Temple Pilots, Sum 41, Royal Crown Review, Elegantly Wasted, and others. The album's cover artwork was created by Portuguese artist "Hello The Mushroom" (Sarah Lucas) specifically for the release.

The vinyl LP edition of Airs of Contempt and Derision is pressed on blue "smoke" vinyl with light pink "splattered" vinyl (limited to 500 copies); the cassette tape edition is manufactured in a black plastic shell case with printed silver lettering (limited to 100 copies); and the compact disc edition (which contains a hidden "bonus" track) is presented as a matte finish CD Digipack.

Clark has been interviewed for websites such as The Aither (Sidney, Australia), and Dangerous Minds (Los Angeles, California); and for podcasts including The Book of Very Very Bad Things (Pittson, Pennsylvania) and Queen City Sounds (Denver, Colorado), in support of the album and his other works. Apart from his musical output, Clark is also the author of books such as Drunk Jerk and Fuck All You Motherfuckers, among other titles.
